

ISABELLA MODIGLIANI

Isabella Modigliani, Miss Sims2Cri 2007, still all in a state after winning, reveals herself to our webmistress Cri... Let's see how she'll answer and check if she's got the numbers to be a model...

Let's start with an easy one, just to relax you a bit... where are you from?

I was born in Florence and still live there. But I've lived for some years in Rome, which I consider my second home and lately I've spend some time in Stockholm, which literally enchanted me. My city is still Florence, as my accent can prove, but I like to think I have many suitcases ready to be taken to many different places.

So you're born and have always lived there?

I've already answered this one, but I could add that when I was a young child I often went to my grandparents house in Liguria. Just a little missing tile. I've spent long months there, by the sea.

What do you think about your city/ neighbourhood?

My city is the universal centre of beauty. There's no match. I live in the city centre, so I see the very best, the strongest and most charming part of the city. Florence's got soft colours and magical lines. Pity I see it's little enhanced lately.

What do you think about moving or travelling for photo shootings and such?

I don't have any problems in travelling, as I said I love to travel. Now, maybe because I'm young, I never get tired of going here and there. After all, I know my home is always there to wait for me, calm and sweet. Sort of a mother.

Well, I hope you're feeling more relaxed... let's talk about the moment you've been elected Miss Sims2Cri... how did you feel?

How did I feel. That's a tough one. In the very moment I heard the verdict... well... my mind emptied, completely. It was the shock, I guess. Then I went back to the current situation and I was completely confused, I couldn't believe it. I didn't expect it at all, weird. After that moment I felt I'd been very lucky.

Was it a hope or just a dream?

Well, you do hope in your dreams, at least a bit, so I'd say both of them, why say I didn't hope to win? That's why I entered the contest, it's not such a strange thing. Competition has been really hard, though, the other girls were gorgeous and talented. But, you know, what can I say? I'm really happy I've won.

What did your mom say?

She said: I knew it. But she's really not to be considered, she's got no comparison. She's got a really strong character and a tough temper, you've got to watch out your every move. My mom's like a volcano.

What about your other commitments now? Will you find the time to sing?

I could never give up singing Even if it's only for a friends' audience, with a home microphone. Just as long as I sing. I've studied it a lot, so it would be silly to throw away such an investment. I'm self confident and I hope I manage to balance everything, new and old life. I had too much free time anyway! And if I didn't sing, I wouldn't know how to express myself when I'm in a bad mood, and that happens rather often.

Come on, sing something for us, let us hear your voice... do you write your own songs?

Here, now? No, really, I can't! I'm sure I would get even the simplest song wrong! I don't write, sadly the few tries I've gave it have been really poor. But I've got lot of friends who write beautiful songs and I often sing those!

Last year Miriam, Miss Sims2Cri 2006, has posed for our calendar. What's your opinion about them and would you do one, even little dressed?

Calendars? Some are gorgeous, why not admit it? The body is pure art, if emphasized the right way. Actually, I think the human body is the most beautiful subjects nature has created. Miriam's calendar is good example. Pure beauty. This stated, I think that if I should find myself posing naked or almost I'd feel embarrassed at first. But in the end I'd be glad to do it, if guaranteed a certain quality level.

What do you think about marriage? And about love?

I don't believe in marriage, not at all, I've got to admit it. I know it's a hard and absolute statement, but I've never believed in this institution, ever since I was a child. But I do believe in love. Actually, it's probably the only thing I truly believe in.

So you say love is the only thing you truly believe in... how do you define yourself, who's Isabella and how is she like?

Principally, she's girl who's looking for her own place into the world. Something, somebody, somewhere to make her feel completely adequate, which hasn't happened yet. She's a girl who loves art, deeply, and always tries to keep her eyes on the future. Unfortunately I haven't got an easy personality. I'm very moody and touchy. But I pride myself in being completely honest and fair towards the others. It's important to me to say this, especially in a competition such as this, filled with bad words and suspects...

How do people see Isabella? Do people get the wrong impression of you at first?

I like to say people see me as my friend Marco described me in my presentation in the contest. But I know that, unfortunately, it isn't always the case, and maybe it's fair. People see me as cold, introvert. It's a wrong idea but there's not much I can do about it. That's why I always try to be as polite as I can, even when I'm in a bad mood.

During the photo shoot you'll be around our models all the time... is there someone you particularly like? A bit of jealousy?

I don't know about jealousy. I don't know if someone's jealous of me, I haven't heard anything about it. The models... well, I don't know them well, but I do have eyes! There are some very attractive men and women. It wouldn't be fair to pick one as the more good-looking, at the moment. But on a feeling level,

I'd like to know a bit more Giorgio, Mr Sims2Cri 2007. And may I just suggest something about Hisashi's eyes? Well, I've done it anyway.

It's alright, but watch out, Miriam isn't very happy about being replaced and... but maybe you still know nothing about it. Your typical day... what were your habits?

A rich breakfast full of fruits. The only real habit. I'm not that type of girl But some things have always been compulsory. For example, phoning my best friends in the afternoon, or during breaks at work. With my job, I can't have a fixed routine. Different recording studios, different timetables, different places... but I like it this way. Oh, and before sleeping, except really rare cases, always a rose tea and half an hour reading.

Three things you couldn't live without.

Three things. Then I won't mention people and maybe it's better, I'm afraid I would offend to many people. So: singing, books, hair clips (with my hair, nobody could do without them!)

Well, our hair stylists will have a hard time on it... but you kept them natural during the contest... speaking about beauty, let's talk about your perfect body. Will you reveal your secret to all the girls that are reading this interview and wish to be at your place?

My secret is mom's DNA, she used to be a model. Really, I don't do much to keep fit, I know it's not a nice thing to say. I'm lucky. As many suggest, I drink a lot of water and avoid desserts. But I can't resist a pizza.

So your favourite dish is pizza?

Yes, it is. But I also like rice with mushrooms. And sushi.

What do you think about animals and fur coats?

Completely against fur coats. No dispensation. Completely against. I think animals are way beyond us, we should learn from them.

I wouldn't want to embarrass you asking what you think about us, and we've made you talk so much already...

No embarrassment at all, I only think good of you. A serious organization, precise, careful and skilful. I think everything you do express creativity and quality, that's way I'm so proud to be a part of your world from now on.

Well, embarrassment must be gone, since you interrupt me while I speak... My questions have been nice, but watch out for the fans' one...

From Ilenia: You've worked for Sims2Cri. How did you get along with the staff? To you feel gratified in your role?

The staff is great. Practical, precise and polite. They seem to have one more gear in everything they do. I especially notice a constant devotion and a great passion for what they do, which make them stand out between other sites. That's why I'm proud of the opportunity I've been giving. Sims2Cri is a guarantee of quality.

From Kady: Would you have a love story with a colleague or you prefer not to mix work and love?

I don't ask myself such questions. Work and love can be mixed if they must. It's not the situation where the love start that makes a difference. If it's on the street, it's ok; if it's on a photo set, it's still ok. Anyway, I'm not looking for love at the moment.

From Mariu; Do you feel more like the innocent girl who looks into the mirror or the grim lady inside of it?

I don't recognize myself in that dreaming girl. But neither I do in that shrewdly reflection, come on! I'm somewhere in the middle...

From Bluesky: Isabè xD what's the first thing you thought after discovering you've won the title?

As I said, at first emptiness of mind. I must have looked like a dope in that moment. As soon as I got over it, I thought I was lucky and felt proud of myself.

From Lukinik: Isa, what do you think about Miriam, the first Miss Sim2Cri? Do you think she's nice? Minly, when you've been given the title, did you feel ready to take over her?

Miriam's cool and nice, yes, and beautiful of course. I still don't know her very well, but I'm happy to have taken the place of such a cute person. Many have talked about resentment for the passage of the title, but, on my side, these are rumours without any concrete basis.

Thanks for all these answer and the nice words on us. Now it's time to make you work, say hello and go to Barbara, she's waiting for you to try some clothes on. Maybe next we'll be doing this interview again and you'll say we're witches...
